

ARCH 490 Graduation Project

Definition of the design problem, (the project). Concept formation and alternative design concepts. Preparation and development of the preliminary design. Development of design incorporating the concepts of engineering systems used. Preparation of the volumetric configurations of the masses and interior spaces of the project. Writing a brief design report. Finalization and presentation to the final Jury panel for evaluation.