3. Program(s) in which the course is offered. Bachelor
(If general elective available in many programs indicate this rather than list programs)
4. Name of faculty member responsible for the course
   Dr. Youssef EL Bagoury
5. Level/year at which this course is offered 2th Level
6. Pre-requisites for this course (if any)
7. Co-requisites for this course (if any)
8. Location if not on main campus

B Objectives

1. Summary of the main learning outcomes for students enrolled in the course.
   This course, covering ancient and medieval built environments aims to:

   1. Give the student a basic comprehension of the significant attitudes, philosophies, and theories of the periods under scrutiny and their relevance in the contemporary architectural fields of theory and practice.

   2. Explore the interrelation between architecture and the landscape (topography in its amplest definition) on which it rests, placing the character of physical form in its social-historical context.

   3. Develop a comprehension of the needs and aspirations of a given epoch as these were manifested in physical form, as well as to the reception of architectural ideas and buildings in such epoch and their impact on current thinking

2. Briefly describe any plans for developing and improving the course that are being implemented. (eg increased use of IT or web based reference material, changes in content as a result of new research in the field)

   Students to interact with the course materials subscribed within the web site of the instructor
C. Course Description (Note: General description in the form to be used for the Bulletin or Handbook should be attached)

This first course in the architectural history sequence introduces students to world architecture and urbanism from prehistory to the Italian Renaissance. The course helps students understand the various cultural, technological, philosophical, and aesthetic ideas that helped shape buildings through history. Buildings and settlements on all of the major continents and in all of the major world cultures are discussed. Additionally, students will be expected learn and understand fully the concepts and the material presented in class, and exhibit an ability to interpret data meaningfully and independently in exams and assignments. Mastery of the material provides students with historical knowledge to complement that gained in design and composition components of studio courses.

3. Additional private study/learning hours expected for students per week. (This should be an average :for the semester not a specific requirement in each week) 2 hours

4. Development of Learning Outcomes in Domains of Learning

For each of the domains of learning shown below indicate:

- A brief summary of the knowledge or skill the course is intended to develop;
- A description of the teaching strategies to be used in the course to develop that knowledge or skill;
- The methods of student assessment to be used in the course to evaluate learning outcomes in the domain concerned.

a. Knowledge

(i) Description of the knowledge to be acquired

Develop a comprehension of the needs and aspirations of a given epoch as these were manifested in physical form, as well as to the reception of architectural ideas and buildings in such epoch and their impact on current thinking.
b. Cognitive Skills

(i) Cognitive skills to be developed to provide students with first-hand experience of architecture and other art forms;

(ii) Teaching strategies to be used to develop these cognitive skills

- ILLUSTRATIONS
- assignments

(iii) Methods of assessment of students cognitive skills

- interaction of students during the lecturers,
- homework,
- exams.

c. Interpersonal Skills and Responsibility

(i) Description of the interpersonal skills and capacity to carry responsibility to be developed to familiarise students with some library resources including useful web-sites, and how to use them;

(ii) Teaching strategies to be used to develop these skills and abilities

- assignments

(iii) Methods of assessment of students interpersonal skills and capacity to carry responsibility

end-course-PAPER

d. Communication, Information Technology and Numerical Skills

(i) Description of the skills to be developed in this domain.

to acquaint students with objects from a range of periods and cultures;

to introduce students to the many varied issues and concerns of architectural including its methods, materials and techniques;

(ii) Teaching strategies to be used to develop these skills

Assignments
(iii) Methods of assessment of students numerical and communication skills

EXAM

e. Psychomotor Skills (if applicable)

(i) Description of the psychomotor skills to be developed and the level of performance required

(ii) Teaching strategies to be used to develop these skills

(iii) Methods of assessment of students psychomotor skills
