

Advanced Pharmacology (PHL 518)

(1+1)

Course Content

This course is given to postgraduate students who are going to register to their master degree. This course also promotes the students skills in scientific writing and research methodology. PHL 518 is (2 credit hours), its method of instruction differs from the other courses. It concentrates on teaching the students methods of scientific writing, literature reviewing and on how students may present orally their selected presentations. During this course the student are also taught some laboratory experiences (especially related to their work in the master). By the end of this course, the master proposals of the students will be prepared.