

Staff Development and Quality of Teaching and Learning in Higher Education

Rashid M. Al-Hamli, Assistant Professor

Mansour A. Alshehri, Assistant Professor

King Saud University

P.O.Box 2456

Riyadh 11451

paper presented in the Asian-Pacific Quality Network Conference-Kuala Lumpur 4-7 February, 2007.

Abstract:

Several studies indicated that staff development (SD) in higher education institutions plays an integral role in maintaining and enhancing quality of teaching and learning process. Staff development should emphasize that staff development is the responsibility of the institution as a whole, and of individual members of staff. It is important therefore that adequate systems and opportunities are in place, and in use, by colleagues across the institution to equip and develop its staff to meet not only the Current needs of their job but also future demands in the rapidly changing environment.