

Practical Exam 412

Name:

ID:

1. Which of the following specimen type is most often submitted for parasite study?

- A. Blood
- B. Sputum
- C. Urine
- D. Stool

2. Which of the following is the specimen of choice to demonstrate intracellular parasites such as Toxoplasma gondii and Leishmania spp.?

- A. Sputum
- B. Urine
- C. Tissue
- D. Genital secretions

3. The primary function of a host in a parasite-host relationship is to:

- A. Carry on the parasite's life cycle
- B. Provide immunologic protection for the host
- C. Carry on the host's life cycle
- D. Provide a food source for the host

4. How many stool samples should be collected when following the typical O&P collection protocol?

- A. 1
- B. 2
- C. 3
- D. 4

5. Which of the following characteristics is observed during the macroscopic examination of stool specimens?

- A. Consistency
- B. Color
- C. Adult worms
- D. All of the above

Answers

- 1-D
- 2-C
- 3-A
- 4-C
- 5-D