

Many thanks for placing your LinkedIn Profile Professional Re-Write order with us.

We have prepared a report detailing what should be included in the main sections of the LinkedIn profile. You can now update your own profile, with your own confidential log-in details, and then simply copy and paste the information from this report into the LinkedIn profile online.

Your Headline

The Headline is the few sentences of bold text that sits below your name on your LinkedIn profile and is vital to encouraging recruiters to want to read more about you.

Our suggestion:

Accomplished Medical Specialist, Researcher & Training

Why? It's important to have a headline that helps you stand out on LinkedIn and also shows off your skills and what you are most interested in.

Are you happy with your new headline?

(There is a 120-character limit (with spaces) on headlines)

About

The About section on LinkedIn is where you have the opportunity to provide a recruiter with more detailed information about yourself. It has to be written in the first person and show off your personality. In this way, it's very different from your CV/Resume. Importantly, the About section should be written with a clear idea of what you are using LinkedIn for so that it targets the right people and should also be an expansion of the headline by telling readers a little more about you.

Our suggestion:

I am an accomplished medical researcher, consultant and training expert specialising in developing and maintaining comprehensive knowledge of the current state of the profession. I adopt a consultative approach to ensure specific requirements are met whilst focusing on exceeding expectations for service quality. An innovative problem solver and creative thinker, I have successfully managed major medical related projects that have had a significant positive impact. I am renowned as a motivational and inspirational specialist capable of training and developing teams to enable them to fulfil their potential and add value to the medical profession.

Do you think we've captured you well?

Is there anything you'd like us to change or add?

(There is a 2,000-character limit (with spaces) on the summary.)

Job Positions

The Job Positions section on your LinkedIn Dashboard enables you to let recruiters know what opportunities you are looking for. You have the option to choose whether or not you let recruiters know that you're open to new opportunities. Be aware, although LinkedIn does what it can to not let your current employer know, they cannot guarantee that your status will not become known to them.

What job titles are you considering?

Advanced Research Management Training Consultant | Advanced Medical Researcher | Senior Medical Researcher & Training Consultant

What locations would you work in?

Middle East | Saudi Arabia | Egypt

Job types

Full-time
Contract

Who can view this section?

Only Recruiters
All LinkedIn Members

Skills and Endorsements

We've listed your skills and expertise to add to your profile. There is a limit of 50 skills that can be listed and this helps recruiters search for you by these keywords. Once you have populated your profile with keywords, other people that you connect with have the opportunity to “endorse” these skills so the more skills you have, and the more endorsements you get for this, the better.

Our suggestion:

Microsoft Office | Google Drive | Adobe Package | High degree of manual dexterity | Organisational Skills | Decision-making Skills | Communication Skills | Team Work | Interrelationships | Patient Care | Emotional Resilience | Calm Temperament | Ability to Work under Pressure | Physical Stamina to Cope with Demands of Surgery | Leadership | Report Writing | Research | Data Collection | Analysis | Critical Thinking & Analysis | Planning | Scheduling \ Project Management & Delivery | Negotiating Skills | Training & Development

Experience

We've added details to your experience and matched them to your future aspirations. Recruiters really like to see specific achievements in this section; highlight how you have made a difference in each role so that they can see your potential to add value to their company.

(There is a 2,000-character limit (with spaces) for each job description.)

Our suggestion:

- MRCOG Part 1 – March 1994

Projects

There is a section that can be added into LinkedIn where you have the capacity to provide more information on any specific projects that you may have completed. This is entirely optional but may help to show recruiters more about what successes you have had.

Project name	Wide range of Translation related Projects
Description	Translations included translations of books covering areas such as Venous Disorders, Lecture Notes on Obstetrics and Gynecology, Williams Obstetrics Study Guide, Obstetrics and Gynecology at a Glance, When Doctors Kill. I was also a referee in the Translation Centre at Kind Saud University and provided translation of Manuscript Submission Guidelines: The Journal of Hand Surgery (European Volume).

Additional things to think about

- If you haven't already, we would advise you to get at least 2 or 3 more recommendations as soon as possible. To request a recommendation from your profile page:
 - Click the “Me” icon at the top of your LinkedIn homepage.
 - Select View profile.
 - Scroll down to the Recommendations section and click "Ask to be recommended."
 - Type the name of the connection you'd like to ask for a recommendation in the Who do you want to ask? field.
 - Select the name from the dropdown that appears.
 - Fill out the Relationship and Position at the time fields of the recommendations pop-up window and click Next.
 - You can change the text in the message field, and then click Send.
- Have you thought about becoming active in LinkedIn Groups? They are important for making yourself known on LinkedIn. You can search for specific groups if you wish or, alternatively, LinkedIn will provide you with regular suggestions of groups that may be appropriate to you.
- If you haven't inserted your profile photo, remember to do so. Adding a photo makes it much more likely that your profile will be found in searches. A professional headshot of you looking smart and smiling is the best option. Our Photo-JIG Business Photo Editing Service can help if you want to stand out from the crowd.
- LinkedIn will recommend other sections that you may wish to consider populating. These include: publications, languages, organisations you belong to, awards you have received and volunteering you have been involved in. We have focused on the main sections but recruiters and connections will definitely appreciate the extra effort you have gone to if you include some of these other sections.
- You can create a custom URL for your LinkedIn profile, something that is simplified and therefore easier to share. Simply go to the “Settings” menu, click “Edit your public profile” and then “Customise your public profile URL”.
- One of the key things to remember is to be pro-active in terms of connecting with the right people and always pick up the phone when you've made a strong connection via LinkedIn.
- Finally, it would be a shame if you lost the job because of that drunk photo you took during your holidays. Or that controversial post you made on a forum 5 years ago.
