Teaching is my passion, and believe that there is an abstract link between the teacher and the taught, a worthy teacher understands from the face expression of the student how far a particular student is conceiving the notion that is being taught, and therefore adjusts accordingly. To me a most successful teacher is he, who balances his lectures in such a way that most talented students are fed what they are due, where as the low rankers are brought to a considerable good level and thus at the end meets demands of both cadres.
